

Electrical Apprentice of the Year

Winner: Jonathan Willson, Seymour and Castle Ltd

The NICEIC Award for Electrical Apprentice of the Year was, once again, extremely hard fought, but in Jonathan Willson, the judges were convinced that they had found the outstanding candidate.

Employers Seymour and Castle Ltd described Jonathan as the brightest apprentice they have taken on in many years and have marked him out as having the potential to make a major contribution to the future development of the business due to his “diligence, temperament, practical and academic abilities.” This testimony is backed up by certificates that attest to him having achieved distinction at every level of his assessment.

The judges felt that Jonathan shone through, both academically and practically, and were impressed by Seymour and Castle’s innovative training approach, which provided him with further opportunities for professional development.

Highly commended

James West, Southern Electric Contracting

Highly commended in this category went to Southern Electric Contracting’s James West. James also achieved excellent academic results and had completed his exams early as a result of his competence. Special mention must go to the employer for having six candidates shortlisted in this category.
